

Cannabis and Vertical Farming Capabilities

R.H. White Companies including R.H. White Construction and WhiteWater – its utility subsidiary – have the expertise, equipment and skilled workforce to bring your cannabis operation from a seed of an idea to a fully outfitted and operational cultivation, testing or retail facility.

With multiple offices in Massachusetts, as well as New Hampshire and Connecticut, we're well suited to meet your unique facility needs. From critical clean rooms, to food production and high-tech manufacturing facilities we have the transferable skills to apply to your complex cannabis construction project. Additionally, we have deep experience in environmental controls, water purification, recovery and waste management odor control.

So, whether you're building a new facility or retrofitting an existing space give us a call to see how we can help you grow!

Values We Insist On

Safety – We instill a Safety 24/7 Culture in our employees that you will see spread throughout your facility. The safety of your employees and customers is paramount.

Communication – Ongoing and open communications across all stakeholders decreases scope creep and keeps projects on schedule and within budget.

Planning – From our pre-construction services and pre-planning process (P3) we understand adequate analysis of any project is directly proportional to appropriate solutions.

Quality – Doing a job well and meeting customer expectations and requirements has been the cornerstone of our longevity.

Service – Whether it's superior customer service or 24/7 emergency service you can count on our teams to effectively meet your needs from project inception to completion and beyond.
